

"AALP advances your understanding of key agriculture and rural issues, providing the tools you need to be a true advocate for the agricultural community. The program is an immersive, experiential learning opportunity, building upon your natural skills and strengthening your passions. This is an experience you will never forget."

Peggy Brekveld, AALP Class 14,
President Ontario Federation of Agriculture

"The AALP program engaged the whole cross-section of agriculture. As leaders, we can get comfortable in our own area, in silos, in our "own bubble". AALP gives ag leaders of today and tomorrow the opportunity to break down those barriers, and to learn to communicate effectively across a broad range of stakeholders."

Jeff Reid, AALP Class 6,
General Manager at SeCan

"Grain Farmers of Ontario benefits from AALP alumni on the Board and as staff. They bring a culture of sharing ideas through meaningful debate and collaboration. They have strong networks that help GFO plan for the present and future of the ag-sector."

Brendan Byrne, AALP Class 17,
Chair at Grain Farmers of Ontario

"For Canada to continue to grow as a world leader in agriculture and food we need to develop leaders throughout the wide network that influences success at the local and global scale. This is what the AALP program does so well and it is why it is so important."

Rene Van Acker, Ph.D., P.Ag.
Dean and Professor Ontario Agricultural College, University of Guelph
