

Meet Forrest Heard...

Forrest Heard is a graphic and user experience designer. She is a strategic, creative, passionate, empathetic, and user-focused, problem solver. Forrest came into the graphic & UX design world after a childhood of responsibility and leadership roles, through being the oldest of 4 children, sea cadets, and volunteering. Forrest grew up immersed in the field of entrepreneurship and community development from her father. She loves developing solutions that are unique, effective, and beautiful. Through obstacles and successes, Forrest has learned to embrace and meet challenges head on.

Forrest has been working in the field of graphic and UX design for two years following her education. Forrest worked in the Marketing Department at St. Lawrence College for just over a year and just finished her one year internship in the Continuing Education and On-Line Learning Department at Sault College. Forrest earned her advanced diploma in graphic design and her graduate certificate in user experience design at St. Lawrence College. Forrest also gained many skills and experience working as a Residence Advisor at St. Lawrence College's Residence in her final year of graphic design.

Forrest is also an active volunteer in her community always willing to help out different sporting associations in Elliot Lake and helping the local Rotary Club. Her parents have always been a big part of the community through volunteering and Forrest is following in their footsteps.
